

From HOD's Desk

Medical profession continues to be the noblest profession of all. Amongst all the medical specialties, department of anaesthesiology stands apart as in addition to imparting knowledge, it deals with imparting the skills that are lifesaving, life giving and life rejuvenating in nature.

Anaesthesiology is a relatively new branch with respect to surgery. All progress which has occurred in various surgical specialties has been possible due to advancements in anaesthesiology.

An anaesthesiologist is not only armed with the knowledge of their own speciality (which no one else possesses), but is not lacking in other specialties of medicine. It is the anaesthesiologist, which assimilates the anatomical, pathophysiological, medical and surgical knowledge in perspective to maintain normal physiology during the peri-operative period.

Healthcare is fast progressing and the newer surgical interventions demand increasing support from the facility of anaesthesiology. Our department aims to educate our students with excellent knowledge as well as provide rigorous training that will prepare them to meet the ever increasing professional and scientific challenges. The different components of Anaesthesiology - Anaesthesia administration, post operative Care, Intensive Care management, Acute and Chronic Pain management and the Life Saving Resuscitation skills – are all imparted, which provide an extraordinary environment for medical education and training. Besides clinical knowledge, the department conducts clinical research activities to keep at pace with the advancements going on around the world. The highest caliber faculty, high class education, research, and patient care all serve to attract the most deserving students to this department and the Institution.

The department feels it is our responsibility to make it useful to the society. The students and residents of our department get a chance to serve the nation by being part of medical fraternity teams posted for various international summits, religious yatras and national events.

I wish to make this department a benchmark for academic education, clinical skills and research in the country. This is a challenging task and can be fulfilled only with team work. I seek sincere support of my whole department in order to make this dream come true. I am confident that with the all-round support; the department will be able to achieve its objective of preparing good clinicians, medical teachers and researchers.

Thanking you,

Dr. Maitree Pandey

Director Professor & Head